

Get ready for “Big Emotions: Kids Listen MASHUPS about feelings”, a brand-new podcast brought to you by an exciting collaboration of over 40 trusted Kids Listen creators! Engage your audience with this rich SEL resource, delivering immersive emotional understanding through the power of story and sound.

SEL Learning in the Classroom

This series is a practical, ready-to-use resource designed to help educators teach Social and Emotional Learning (SEL) in the classroom. Each episode is built around the five core SEL competencies, using relatable emotion pairs like Fear and Bravery, and Jealousy and Openness to drive meaningful conversations. With narratives, guided reflection questions, and hands-on activities, this series gives educators effective tools to build students’ self-awareness, self-management, social awareness, relationship skills, and decision-making abilities — supporting emotional growth.

The Power of Collaboration

This project brings together over 40 podcast creators from the Kids Listen community, including several award-winning shows, in a unique collaboration focused on supporting children’s emotional development. With a shared commitment to young listeners’ well-being, these creators offer diverse, high-quality audio that helps children explore and understand their emotions. By combining a wide range of creative voices, this series amplifies emotional literacy and fosters empathy. It’s a powerful example of how collaboration can create meaningful tools for emotional growth.

The podcast itself offers young listeners an engaging and accessible way to explore emotions. Through carefully crafted music that reflects the feelings being discussed, the show helps children connect with complex emotions in a relatable way. By combining storytelling, sound, and reflection, the podcast makes emotional concepts easier to understand and encourages deeper thinking and empathy, helping young listeners build emotional awareness in a format that feels natural to them.
